Professional Practice

Overview

David Ravenscroft has practiced law for 40 years and has experience of a wide variety of disputes and dispute resolution processes.

Professional Background

He started practice with a city firm in London in 1976. In 1982 he moved to Hong Kong since when court work and more latterly dispute resolution in all its forms has been his primary focus.

Since 1985 David Ravenscroft has practiced from his own firm in Hong Kong representing a broad cross-section of individuals from many different social, occupational and ethnic backgrounds as well as corporations and other entities. Instructions have been received locally as well as from other parts of Asia, North America, Australia, Europe and the Indian sub-continent. He has been a Notary Public since 1990.

Dispute Resolution Experience

In the court litigation field David Ravenscroft has experience at all court levels up to the Court of Final Appeal of a very wide variety of cases, although often involving some kind of contractual dispute, both local and international.

He has worked on mediations in cases involving commercial contracts, employment, intellectual property and professional negligence.

As well as conducting lectures, seminars and workshops on the practical aspects of mediation he has written on mediation for the Hong Kong Lawyer magazine and the Asian Dispute Review.
